About the Program

The 2009 conference will provide physicians, surgeons, nurses, transplant coordinators and all kinds of organ procurement personnel with advanced knowledge in all aspects of organ donation. Plenary sessions, breakout sessions and workshops will give opportunities for both formal and informal discussions on numerous topics. Delegates from around the world will participate in the event. The meetings of the ISODP are biannual meetings, alternating with the conferences of the TTS. For the first time the conference will be organised in close cooperation with the ETCO (European Transplantation Coordinators Organisation). Therefore, the meetings provide an ideal opportunity for scientific discussion and exchange of new ideas with the focus on the basic topic of organ transplantation, which is organ donation. Transplantation is not possible without prior organ donation. Come and join us in our efforts to improve the number of organ donations and the quality of organs to help more patients suffering from different organ destructive diseases.

Berlin, Germany

Berlin is the capital of Germany and well known as the border between East and West. Berlin provides an inspiring atmosphere, it is the seat of the German parliament and government and has been the site of highly important historical changes. Just before the 2009 conference will start, Germany is celebrating the 20th anniversary of the downfall of the Berlin Wall. As you will see, celebration in this city means a cosmopolitical fest. Be curious and find out about Berlin's distinctive character and never ending vitality.

Berlin has two airports and is very well connected to the German railway system. Within just some hours by train Hamburg, Cologne, Frankfurt and Munich can be easily reached.

Social Program
